

Reza Ostad, L.LB – L.LM (IRAN & UK) is not only an international banking lawyer, he is a rare voice who has stood at the crossroads of law, finance, and human rights. Educated in both Iran and The United Kingdom and seasoned in global financial hubs from Guernsey's GFSA to the Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC), he has spent his career fighting for those silenced by sanctions. From frozen accounts to banking discrimination cases, he has helped victims of discrimination reclaim their rights against some of the toughest financial systems in the world.

In Second Class Citizen, Ostad reveals the hidden truth: sanctions, designed to punish governments, have instead condemned millions of ordinary people to live as outsiders in the global economy. With clarity and authority, he uncovers how Western banking has been weaponised and, more importantly, how it can be challenged!

More than a critique, this book offers real remedies: legal strategies, regulatory pathways, and advocacy tools for sanctioned communities and their allies. It also offers fiscal regulators and compliance officers clear strategies on how to process applications from sanctioned nationals with fairness, not prejudice.

Essential reading for law students, academics, bankers, compliance and AML officers, regulators, and human rights defenders, Second Class Citizen is both a powerful exposé and a roadmap to fiscal justice.

Price: 21.99 Eu

SECOND CLASS CITIZEN

Reza Ostad

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOUR

IDENTITY
— BECOMES YOUR — LIABILITY

IMMIGRATION LAW
STRATEGY. PROTECTION. RESULTS.

Reza Ostad, L.LB – L.LM (IRAN & UK) is not only an international banking lawyer, he is a rare voice who has stood at the crossroads of law, finance, and human rights. Educated in both Iran and The United Kingdom and seasoned in global financial hubs from Guernsey's GFSA to the Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC), he has spent his career fighting for those silenced by sanctions. From frozen accounts to banking discrimination cases, he has helped victims of discrimination reclaim their rights against some of the toughest financial systems in the world.

In Second Class Citizen, Ostad reveals the hidden truth: sanctions, designed to punish governments, have instead condemned millions of ordinary people to live as outsiders in the global economy. With clarity and authority, he uncovers how Western banking has been weaponised and, more importantly, how it can be challenged!

More than a critique, this book offers real remedies: legal strategies, regulatory pathways, and advocacy tools for sanctioned communities and their allies. It also offers fiscal regulators and compliance officers clear strategies on how to process applications from sanctioned nationals with fairness, not prejudice.

Essential reading for law students, academics, bankers, compliance and AML officers, regulators, and human rights defenders, Second Class Citizen is both a powerful exposé and a roadmap to fiscal justice.

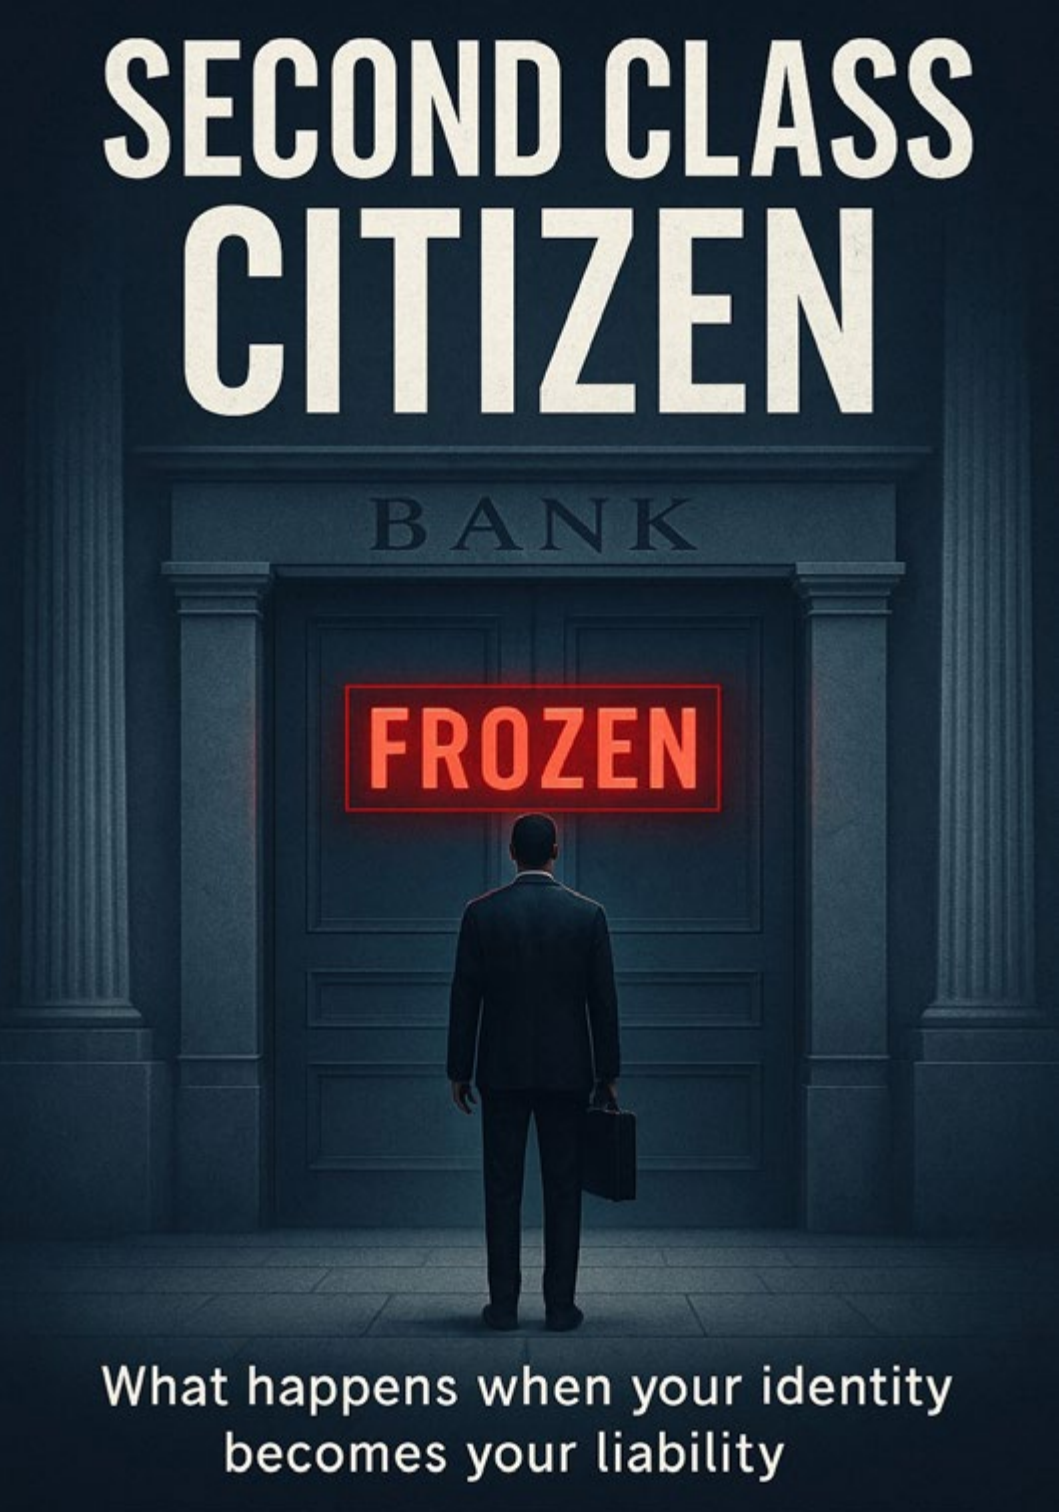

Price: 21.99 Eu

SECOND CLASS CITIZEN

BANK

FROZEN

A man in a dark suit and tie stands with his back to the camera, holding a black briefcase in his right hand. He is standing on a stone-paved sidewalk in front of a large, dark wooden double door. Above the door is a stone lintel with the word "BANK" carved into it. A glowing red rectangular sign with the word "FROZEN" in bold, orange-red capital letters is mounted on the door. The scene is dimly lit, with a blueish-grey color palette, suggesting a cold or somber atmosphere.

What happens when your identity becomes your liability

Reza Ostad, L.LB – L.LM (IRAN & UK) is not only an international banking lawyer, he is a rare voice who has stood at the crossroads of law, finance, and human rights. Educated in both Iran and The United Kingdom and seasoned in global financial hubs from Guernsey's GFSA to the Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC), he has spent his career fighting for those silenced by sanctions. From frozen accounts to banking discrimination cases, he has helped victims of discrimination reclaim their rights against some of the toughest financial systems in the world.

In Second Class Citizen, Ostad reveals the hidden truth: sanctions, designed to punish governments, have instead condemned millions of ordinary people to live as outsiders in the global economy. With clarity and authority, he uncovers how Western banking has been weaponised and, more importantly, how it can be challenged!

More than a critique, this book offers real remedies: legal strategies, regulatory pathways, and advocacy tools for sanctioned communities and their allies. It also offers fiscal regulators and compliance officers clear strategies on how to process applications from sanctioned nationals with fairness, not prejudice.

Essential reading for law students, academics, bankers, compliance and AML officers, regulators, and human rights defenders, Second Class Citizen is both a powerful exposé and a roadmap to fiscal justice.

Price: 21.99 Eu

A man in a dark suit and white shirt stands on a dark, rocky cliff edge, looking towards a large, classical building. The building has a pediment with the word "BANK" inscribed on it. The entrance is a large, dark double door, and the word "FROZEN" is written in red, glowing letters above it. A path of glowing, rolled-up documents leads from the cliff edge towards the entrance. The sky is dark and cloudy.

SECOND CLASS CITIZEN

Reza Ostad

FROZEN

What happens when your identity becomes your liability